Objective

I have approximately 10 years of experience in the field of sales, and customer service in some companies. I have the skills to communicate positively with customers and the ability to give them the necessary benefit and build a good relationship that enhances the customer's confidence in the company and gives it a wide reputation. I can develop work in the field of customer service.

God willing, I will be able to enhance the company's profits by employing my marketing skills in the field of sales and dealing with customers.
